And what was Mike Podgurski's title?  A. I don't know what his title was at that time. He's had a lot of titles, I don't know what it was specifically at that time.  Q. We've been talking about the government affairs division.  What division did Mike Podgurski work in?  A. More pharmacy ops.  Q. And I'm using the word  "division."  Is that the correct term or department or is there a better term in how Rite Aid describes the organizational structure?  A. It's government affairs department. It's very small.

  - That's fine, yes. A.
- 4 What kind of services did Buzzeo O. 5 offer?

MS. McENROE: Objection to form. THE WITNESS: Ron Buzzeo offered services related to regulatory compliance with DEA rules and regulations. There was a wealth of services that Ron and his company offered.

They offered a program to go into pharmacies and review the pharmacies as far as compliance with DEA rules and regulations. They offered programs on suspicious order monitoring. They ordered up programs on how to detect theft and diversion. There was a wide gamut of programs that they had offered related to controlled substances.

Andrew Palmer was a director in Α. asset protection at the time, I believe.

Why did you invite him to this meeting about suspicious order monitoring?
